The Fifteenth annual "Asia Today" series focused on Japan, Korea, and China. These free seminars were attended by 150 community members interested in learning more about Asian countries. The focus of the first session was the political and economic developments of Japan. The second session highlighted a lecturer's personal experiences in Korea. The third session elaborated the effects of new types of businesses on China.

Dr. Yasumasa Kuroda presented one lecture entitled "Japanese Democracy: Its Appearance and Reality." He explored the way Japan has weaved the Western concept of democracy into its traditional culture. His second lecture, called "Japanese Culture and Politics," discussed the recent tragedy of the Ehime Maru and the important role of communication between the United States and Japan. Dr. Deane Neubauer rounded out the session on Japan by presenting "The Impact of Globalization on Japan."

The second session concentrated on Korea. Dr. Glenn Paige presented his experience in Korea in his lecture, "Lessons from Korea: Some Personal Reflections, 1950-2001." Mr. Ralph Cossa discussed the role of politics in his lecture entitled "U.S. - Korea Relations: Where to from here?" Dr. Deane Neubauer again rounded out the session with his lecture "The Impact of Globalization on Korea," which focused on the impact the international economy has on Korea.

The session on China discussed contemporary topics, such as the impact the Internet has on China. Dr. Guobin Yang elaborated on this issue in a lecture called "Civil Society and Democratization in Contemporary China: Enter the Internet." Dr. Kate Zhou presented her lecture "Entrepreneurs and Structural Change in China," which discussed the role of entrepreneurs in modern day China. "The Impacts of Globalization on China" lecture, which explored the effects of the international economy on China, was presented by Dr. Deane Neubauer.

Mahalo to all of the lecturers for all of the fascinating information they presented. The community response was very enthusiastic and all in attendance learned a great deal.
The 28th Workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English
January 8 - February 4, 2001

Once again, CAPE's ever-popular workshop for Asian-Pacific Teachers of English was a success. This year thirty-two Korean middle school English teachers attended the month-long program in Hawaii. For the ninth consecutive year, the event was financially underwritten by a generous contribution from Mr. Chul-Woo Yang, the President of Kyohaksa Publishing Company and longtime CAPE supporter. The funds were made available through the Yong-Ok Scholarship Foundation.

The comprehensive teacher workshop featured a multi-faceted design. Teachers participated in many intensive workshop sessions as well as observational sessions at many area schools. These sessions gave teachers the opportunity to see how their American counterparts teach English. This year teachers were able to observe and communicate with their American peers at Kawananakoa Middle School, Dole Middle School, Lincoln Elementary School, Lunalilo Elementary School, Central Middle School, and Aliiolani Elementary School. In addition, teachers visited Punahou School to observe classroom activities and school facilities. As the Korean and American teachers communicated and shared ideas, they both were able to broaden their global perspectives.

The accompanying workshops gave the teachers an overview of new developments in the field of EFL. Teachers took courses in Micro Teaching and EFL Skills Training. They attended practical mini-lessons on teaching English listening, speaking, writing and reading skills as well as using the computer in English language teaching. More theory-based lessons were given in EFL methodology and Psycholinguistics in language teaching. All lessons were presented by Dr. Graham Crookes, Dr. Roderick A. Jacobs, and Dr. Richard Schmidt, distinguished scholars in the field of EFL and faculty members of the Second Language Studies Program at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. Through broad exposure across the field, teachers were able to keep abreast of recent research and developments.

Supplementing the workshop courses were lessons about American Culture. In addition, special lectures were given by:

- Dr. Edward J. Shultz, Director, Center for Korean Studies at the University of Hawaii; Evangeline Inoue, Principal of Dole Middle School, Samuel Song, US Army Corp. of Engineers; Youngkyu Kim, Ph.D. Student, Dept. of ESL, University of Hawaii; and Dr. Dina Yoshimi, Associate Professor, Department of East Asian Languages and Literature at the University of Hawaii; and Dr. Jai Ho-Yoo, President of CAPE.

Outside of the classroom, participants participated in numerous fieldwork activities that allowed them to visit many sites around Oahu and learn about the unique culture of Hawaii.

Outside of the classroom, the teachers were provided with an invaluable opportunity to learn more about American culture. All of the teachers participated in a week-long home stay with an American family. During their stay, they became part of the family. They shared meals, conversation, and leisure activities with the family. The teachers learned about many typical customs and activities that go on in an American home. This enriching experience could never have happened without the warmth and hospitality of the following host families: The Almadora, Bakke, Brossy, Chang, Curran, Davis, Doering, Wharton, Kaanapu, Mowat, Nakamura, Sakamaki, Soon, Kamanu, and Nordyke families.

Although shorter, this workshop was no less comprehensive than the concurrent Korean middle school teachers' workshop. Twenty high school and middle school English teachers from Korea attended this workshop, which was sponsored by CAPE in cooperation with the University of Hawaii Second Language Studies Department. The workshop participants were financially supported by the Kwangju Office of Education.

The teachers participated in a diverse range of courses as well as several observational school visits. In addition to a Micro Teaching class and complementary lecture in Teaching Technique, participants were given lessons in: EFL Methodology: Teaching EFL Skills, Psycholinguistics and Language Teaching, Teaching English Reading Skills, Teaching Writing Skills, and Teaching Listening and Speaking Skills. The facilitators for these courses included: Dr. Graham Crookes, Dr. Roderick A. Jacobs, Dr. Richard Schmidt, Dr. Edward Shultz, Dr. Dina Yoshimi, Ms. Yoneko Narita, and Youngkyu Kim.

Teachers also had the opportunity to visit St. Francis School and Roosevelt High School. During their visits, teachers were able to observe classroom teaching firsthand and meet their American counterparts. A special Mahalo goes out to Ms. Karen Curry, Director of Admissions of St. Francis School, and Mr. Dennis Hokama, Principal of Roosevelt High School.

Forty participants from Korea came to Hawaii to participate in The CAPE Cultural Studies Workshop. From January 4 to January 17, 2001, twenty members of the faculty and administration staff from Duk sung Women’s University participated in the workshop. A second group of twenty teachers and administrative staff members from Duk sung Elementary, Middle, and High Schools stayed from January 6 to January 18, 2001. Both faculty and administrative staff learned about American culture in these special workshop sessions.

The course on cultural studies focused on cultural perspectives in the U.S., cultural traits of Americans, Americans and global society, and family and education. There were four speakers: Dr. James A. Dator and Dr. Deane Neubauer, both professors from the Department of Political Science at the University of Hawaii; Alison Hartle, Instructor in the Department of American Studies at the University of Hawaii, and Jed Lovingfoss, a CAPE lecturer. The participants all found the presentations to be very enriching and stimulating. They returned home very impressed with the program and with an increased awareness of American culture.

While in Hawaii, the participants were also able to experience Hawaiian culture with visits to Iolani Palace and the Polynesian Cultural Center. In addition, participants were given the opportunity to learn hula. Participants also visited The State Capitol, Waikiki, Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor, and Sea Life Park.

CAPE would like to thank all of its lecturers and distinguished scholars.

The annual meeting of CAPE Friends/Korea was held at Hannam Club in Seoul on April 20, 2001. Sixteen friends joined the dinner hosted by Mr. Young-Tae Kim, president of the CAPE Friends/Korea. Following a dinner and warm exchanges of aloha, Mr. Kim, as president/host, officially welcomed all attendees and thanked them for all their warm support of the 20th anniversary events that were big successes in Korea and in Honolulu. Dr. Jai-Ho Yoo reported the highlights of the 20th anniversary celebration and showed two videotapes, one highlighting CAPE’s history, program development, and accomplishments, and another featuring the anniversary dinner and celebration held at the Sheraton Waikiki on August 8, 2001. All dinner guests not only enjoyed the tapes but were also deeply impressed by CAPE’s dynamic growth in the past 20 years and wished CAPE’s continued progress in enhancing Asia-Pacific harmony during the 21st century. Special Mahalo was due to all who supported CAPE over the years and especially to Mr. Young-Tae Kim, whose generous contributions helped CAPE recover from the Asian economic crisis. The meeting was concluded by presenting the Special Mahalo Award to friends who were unable to be in Honolulu for the anniversary celebration.

CAPE extends warm congratulations to several friends: Hon. Mansup Lee, who was elected as Speaker of the National Assembly; Dr. Sung-Chul Yang, who was appointed Korean Ambassador to U.S.; and Mr. Young-Tae Kim, who became Chairman of Daesung Group.

In attendance at this annual meeting were the following CAPE Friends: Mr. Seung-Hwan Choi, Dr. Sung-Kyu Cho, Dr. Euisook Kim, Dr. Hyun-Uk Kim, Dr. Mo-Im Kim, Mr. Young-Tae Kim, Dr. Kwang-Ok Lee, Hon. Mansup Lee, Dr. Jong-Young Park, Dr. Kyung-Sook Park, Dr. Myung-Seok Park, Dr. Nahm-Sheik Park, Mr. Chul-Woo Yang, Dr. Seok-Soon Yoon, and Dr. Jai-Ho Yoo.

From February 5 - 12, 2001, twenty-four participants from throughout Korea came together to deepen their understanding of comprehensive home care programs, enhance their knowledge of current developments in home care, deepen cross-cultural perspectives among professionals in their field, and promote interaction among colleagues.

This year’s program was conducted in cooperation with Maluhia Hospital, Prime Care Services, Hospice Hawai‘i, Kokua Nurses, The Queen’s Medical Center, The Queen’s Health Systems, Hawaii Association for Home Care, Castle Home Program, CareResource Hawai‘i, and Kaiser Permanente Home Health Agency.

Dynamic and informative lectures on home care issues were presented by Rose Ann Poyzer, Dana Westphalen, and Ken Zeri. Site visitations to various home care and home health agencies were among the workshop's highlights. These home visits provided opportunities for professional interchange and gave special insights into home care services.

CAPE would like to thank the following for their outstanding support and assistance of this program: Jay Duquette, Administrator of Maluhia Hospital; Beth Hoban, Administrator of Prime Care; Steve Kula, President of Hospice Hawaii; Cori Lee of Kokua Nurses; Tomoko Mohideen, International Patient Relations Assistant of The Queen's Medical Center; Ruth Ono, Vice President of The Queen's Health System; Rose Ann Poyzer, Executive Director of Hawaii Association for Home Care; Thad Wakasugi, Controller of CareResource Hawaii; Dana Westphalen, Home Health Manager of Kaiser Permanent; and Ken Zeri of Hospice Hawaii.

We would also like to extend our sincerest Mahalo to Soo-Kyung Cho, Hyeri Joo, Youngkyu Kim, and Chan-Ho Park from the University of Hawaii for their excellent translation services.

The 30th International Program for College Students

CAPE's 30th International Program for College Students brought together 120 students from Korea, who were eager to learn more about English. The program consisted of students from three different schools: Chungnam National University, Duksum University, and Kangwon National University. From Chungnam National University, sixty students came to Hawaii from January 2 to February 26, 2001. From Duksum University, twenty students came from January 17 to February 12, 2001. Lastly, from Kangwon National University, forty students came from January 22 to February 17, 2001. The students learned English in and out of the classroom. The classroom sessions focused on all English language skill areas with a communicative focus. Communication skills were augmented with one-on-one conversation partner activities, where students were given a chance to practice English with native English speakers. In addition, students took special classes about American culture. They were also able to learn the hula, a unique experience to be found only in Hawaii!

The students rounded out their studies outside of the classroom with fieldwork activities, allowing students to explore many historically and culturally interesting places around the island of Oahu. Thus, students enjoyed a very culturally and academically enriching experience.

CAPE would like to send a big Mahalo to Priscilla Faucette, Jed Lovingfoss, Sarah Toohey, and Laurel Soon. Without these outstanding lecturers, this program would not have been such a success.

The 31st International Program for College Students

CAPE's 31st International Program for College Students was held from February 26 to March 24, 2001. Nine students from Japan came to Hawaii to participate in the program to learn English. The classroom sessions focused on all English language skill areas with a communicative focus. Communication skills were augmented with one-on-one conversation partner activities, where students were given a chance to practice English with native English speakers. In addition, students took special classes about American culture.

The students rounded out their studies outside of the classroom with fieldwork activities. These activities allowed students to explore many historically and culturally interesting places around the island of Oahu, providing a very cultural and academically enriching experience.

CAPE would like to send a big Mahalo to Sarah Toohey, Alison Hartle, and Laurel Soon. Without these outstanding lecturers, this program would not have been such a success.
The 18th International Program for Middle/High School Students

Twelve participants from Japan attended the 19th International Program for High School Students held from March 21 to April 3, 2001. The students attended communicatively focused English classes taught by CAPE lecturer Sarah Toohey. They further enhanced their communication skills by practicing with their conversation partners and exploring the island of Oahu.

The High School students also participated in many fieldwork projects that gave them the opportunity to see many different parts of Oahu. Students enjoyed a wide variety of the island’s beaches, parks, museums, and historical sites. A friendly Mahalo is extended to CAPE lecturer Sarah Toohey as well as to the conversation partners.

CAPE Fellowship/ Scholarships

CAPE was delighted to have had the opportunity to offer 25 scholarships to very deserving participants from Japan and Korea. In addition, CAPE was pleased to continue to support various University of Hawaii departments in order to aid faculty and graduate students’ research. As in the years past, it is with the generosity of CAPE supporters that these scholarships were made possible.

28th Workshop

CAPE would like to offer a warm Mahalo to the following school administrators who helped immensely in arranging the school visitations: Mr. Richard Anbe of Kawanakoa Middle School; Ms. Evangeline Inoue of Dole Middle School; Mr. Richard Matsumoto of Lincoln Elementary School; Ms. Kathleen Mau of Lunaililo Elementary School; Ms. Hope Staab of the Wo International Center at Punahou School, Ms. Penelope Tom of Central Middle School; and Ms. Harolden Wakida of Aliiolani Elementary School.

As a final note, this workshop would not continue to be the success year after year if it were not for our outstanding teaching faculty. A special Mahalo is extended to: Dr. Graham Crookes, Dr. Richard Schmidt, Dr. Roderick A. Jacobs, Dr. Edward J. Shultz, Dr. Dina Yoshimi, Mr. Jed Lovingfoss, and Ms. Yoneko Narita. To everyone involved in this outstanding workshop, Mahalo on behalf of the Korean English teachers. Thank you once again for helping to make our workshop a success.

their help in arranging observational visits. Mahalo also to Ms. Geraldine Ichimura, Administrator of Student Support Administration in the Department of Education, for her informative speech on education in Hawaii.

Although their stay was short and full of academic study, participants found some time to experience many of the wonderful cultural activities Hawaii has to offer. They visited scenic sites, such as Hanuuma Bay, historical sites, such as Iolani Palace and the National Memorial Cemetery at the Punchbowl, and cultural and educational sites, such as the Polynesian Cultural Center.
