■ Formosa Laughs: Surveying Taiwan’s Postwar Transformation through Comedy Cinema

By George Chun Han Wang

Since 1945, Taiwan has achieved a highly developed economy through rapid industrialization and progressive democratic reforms. For six decades, Taiwan’s comedy cinema has essentially retained its distinctive grassroots flavors while faithfully documenting Formosa’s impressive transformation with humor and laughter. This lecture presents a unique survey of Taiwan’s postwar growth through the nostalgic lens of the island’s select popular comedy titles, many of them rarely seen by the Western world.

■ Big Gods and Hidden Spectacle: The Daoist Jiao ritual of Cheung Chau, Hong Kong

By Frederick Lau

Jiao is a traditional Daoist ritual to ward off evil spirits, ask for protection, and make offerings to the deities. Practiced throughout China, jiao has absorbed many regional flavors and interpretations. This paper focuses on the jiao ritual as practiced on Cheung Chau, a small island off the coast of Hong Kong. Well-known for its spectacular shows, the annual Cheung Chau jiao has long been an important event for local residents, though in recent years it has become a popular tourism attraction. This talk considers how Cheung Chau jiao has become an iconic event in Hong Kong’s campaign to transform its international image from a shoppers’ paradise to a city with traditional culture and a past, and how this re-contextualization has altered local meanings and practices of the ritual.

■ Higher Education Quality Issues within APEC

By Dean Neubauer

Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) represents a wide range of economies, societies, and systems of higher education. All, however, are situated within a range of change vectors that arise from and are linked to the very nature of globalization. This lecture focuses on (a) the range and differentiation of the higher education systems among APEC countries; (b) the challenges they face from global change; and (c) efforts under way and successes gained in efforts to create and assure higher education quality.

■ What's So Special? Hong Kong and Macau as "Special Administrative Regions" of China

By Cathryn Clayton

China has two "Special Administrative Regions": Hong Kong, which was a British colony until 1997, and Macau, which was under Portuguese rule until 1999. Their "special" status is an acknowledgement of their colonial past, and gives each of these cities an unusual degree of autonomy in running their present-day domestic affairs. How have these cities fared under Chinese control? What has changed, and what has not? This presentation will examine the past, present and possible futures of China's two most "special" regions.

■ Historical Development of Taipei: Globalization, National Identity & Cross-Strait Relations

By Reginald Yin-Wang Kwok

Globalization, national identity, and cross-strait relations are the key factors that shape Taiwan's history, with their full impact landing on the capital, Taipei. Taipei's spatial development, cityscape and landmarks reflect the historical dynamics of their interaction and dominance. This presentation traces the city’s development, with illustrations, through four distinct historical periods: Dynastic incorporation (1683-1894); Japanese colonization (1895-1945); Kuomintang rule (1945-1988); and global competition (1988-2008). Finally, the talk will take past and present urban changes to project the city’s probable future prospects.

He has written articles for the Journal of Chinese Cinemas, Journal of Media Education, and Italy's Centro Espressioni Cinematografiche.

Dear Colleague:

The focus of this year's "Asia Today" lectures is on Hong Kong, Taiwan, and APEC 2011 Hawaii (a forum for Asia-Pacific economies to cooperate on regional trade and investment issues). These forums will take a closer look at the burgeoning cultures and economies of these up-and-coming powers of East Asia, with interesting detours into Taiwan's comedy film industry, and a look at a spectacular and well-known festival on a small island outside of Hong Kong, among others.

The Center for Asia-Pacific Exchange invites you to learn more about these issues at our 25th Annual "Asia Today" Series. Scheduled talks are as follows:

Saturday, April 16, 2011:

Dr. George Chun Han Wang: Formosa Laughs: Surveying Taiwan's Postwar Transformations through Comedy Cinema
Dr. Frederick Lau: Big Gods and Hidden Spectacle: The Daoist Jiao Ritual of Cheung Chau, Hong Kong

Saturday, April 23, 2011:

Dr. Dean Neubauer: Higher Education Quality Issues Within APEC

Saturday, April 30, 2011:

Dr. Cathryn Clayton: What's So Special? Hong Kong and Macau as "Special Administrative Regions" of China
Dr. Reginald Yin-Wang Kwok: Historical Developments of Taipei: Globalization, National Identity, and Cross-strait Relations

All sessions take place from 9a.m. to 12noon on three consecutive Saturdays, with all entrance fees waived for local Hawaii residents.

Previous participant responses to the "Asia Today" Series:

"I found the lectures well-organized, well-prepared, and insightful."

"Excellent speakers provided amazingly interesting information in such a short amount of time."

"Very interesting and informative on a wide range of topics. It's a good combination of background and modern era facts."

"It stimulates us to think about ourselves, our society, and our universe, and how we should conduct ourselves."

Please share this information with your friends and colleagues and plan to join us for one or more sessions. This opportunity is unique and space is limited, so please let us hear from you soon. All lectures are free to the public, however you are requested to pre-register by returning the registration form to CAPE by April 23, 2010.
